

Wanda Voy admits to being nothing more than an alter ego of someone way too busy to be an author, much less an author of her least favorite book genre: romance. Wanda grew out of an addiction to K-pop and Korean Drama, two entertainment products of a very quickly growing and tiny nation known to the world as South Korea.

Somehow, over the course of a year or more, Wanda has created her own version of South Korea (and all of Earth, for that matter), with a focus on a couple of very unlikely people, in a very unlikely relationship, in very unlikely situations.

Hey, that's what fiction is all about, right?

Wanda Voy looks forward to expounding upon and expanding this new fictional universe and hopes that all fiction readers will enjoy her efforts.

Wanda's website can be found at <https://wandavoy.wordpress.com>, and has been known to read her email at wandavoy@yahoo.com.